Praise for International Journal of Action Research

The journal is at the forefront of our field. Moreover I appreciate, that IJAR is providing a forum for a North - South dialogue, which we all need so urgently.

Orlando Fals Borda, Universidad Nacional de Colombia, Colombia

IJAR has opened outward to create a broad international dialogue on some of the most challenging issues in action research, including its philosophical underpinnings. IJAR takes a hard and dispassionate look at AR practice with a goal of improving it. The journal is masterfully edited.

Davydd Greenwood, Cornell University. Ithaca, N.Y.

IJAR is a valuable contribution to the growing discourse on action research. It has its roots in the industrial democracy movement, which initially centered in Tavistock and then took roots in Norway in the 1960s. For the contemporary discourse to be fruitful, this mix of the new and the historical is a necessity.

Björn Gustavsen, Work Research Institute, Oslo
The International Journal of Action Research provides a forum for an open and non dogmatic discussion about action research, both its present situation and future perspectives. This debate is open to the variety of action research concepts worldwide. The focus is on dialogues between theory and practice.

The International Journal of Action Research is problem driven; it is centered on the notion that organizational, regional and other forms of social development should be understood as multidimensional processes and viewed from a broad socio-ecological, participative and societal perspective.

The International Journal of Action Research is a refereed journal, appearing three times a year. The editors invite contributions from academic social sciences, giving special attention to action research and action research practice, to conceptual and theoretical articles pertaining to its focus and to discussions on the changing worlds of work and society.

The International Journal of Action Research is the successor to the former journal Concepts and Transformation (9 volumes, 1996 – 2004). The editors and principles are unchanged. In effect, in 2007 the journal is in its 12th year of publication.
