General syllabus for doctoral (third-cycle) studies in Law at Luleå University of Technology

Decided by the Chair of FFN 20 May 2020

1. Subject description

English name: Law

Law is the scientific study of legal rules and their origin, content and application. The research at Luleå University of Technology is focused on environmental and natural resources law in a broad sense and includes such parts of civil law, public law, international law and EU law that relate to environmental and nature conservation, as well as exploitation and management of natural resources and energy.

2. Programme aim and intended learning outcome

The aim of the doctoral (third-cycle) studies in Law at the University is to give the doctoral student specialised knowledge in Law, in-depth knowledge of different research methods and a good understanding of the challenges related to research and its practical application. The overall objective of the programme is that the doctoral student develops into a critical and autonomous researcher in Law, able to plan and carry out research projects. The doctoral student shall fulfil all the qualitative targets specified in the Higher Education Ordinance as well as in the locally decided qualitative targets, if any (see attached Annex A).

3. Admission requirements and selection

3.1 General entry requirements

An applicant meets the general entry requirements for doctoral (third-cycle) studies if he or she has been awarded a Master's (second-cycle) qualification, has satisfied the requirements for courses comprising at least 240 credits, of which at least 60 second-cycle credits, or has acquired substantially equivalent knowledge in another way, in Sweden or elsewhere (Higher Education Ordinance (2010:1064) Chapter 7 Section 39).

3.2 Specific entry requirements

In addition to the general entry requirements, a Master in Law is required for admission to doctoral (third-cycle) studies in Law.

3.3 Selection

In selecting among applicants who meet the requirements, their ability to benefit from the course or the study programme shall be taken into account. However, the fact that an applicant may be credited for previous courses and study programmes or for professional or vocational experience may not alone give the applicant priority over other applicants (Higher Education Ordinance (2010:1064) Chapter 7 Section 41). The University's local guidelines in the Admissions procedure for doctoral (third-cycle) studies must also be applied.

The following criteria will be used in the selection of applicants for doctoral (third-cycle) studies in Law.

- Excellent knowledge in oral and written communication in Swedish and/or English
- Quality of Master's thesis and other written work

4. The degree

The doctoral (third-cycle) studies lead to a Degree of Doctor. Within Law, a student admitted to doctoral studies has the right to be awarded a licentiate degree after having completed at least 120 credits of the programme leading to a Degree of Doctor.

4.1 Degree requirements

For a Degree of Doctor, the doctoral student shall

- have been awarded a pass grade for courses of 60 credits.
- have been awarded a pass grade for a research thesis (doctoral thesis) of at least 180 credits.

The thesis and the courses shall together amount to 240 credits for a Degree of Doctor.

For a Degree of Licentiate, the doctoral student shall

- have been awarded a pass grade for courses of 30 credits.
- have been awarded a pass grade for a licentiate thesis of at least 90 credits.

The thesis and the courses shall together amount to 120 credits for a Degree of Licentiate.

4.2 Titles of degree

- After the completion of the Degree of Doctor in Law the doctoral student is awarded the title Doctor of Laws.
- After the completion of the Degree of Licentiate in Law, the doctoral student is awarded the title Licentiate of Legal Science.

A request of a title of degree other than the stipulated may be submitted in accordance with laid down guidelines.

5. Programme structure and implementation

5.1 Programme scope and structure

The doctoral (third-cycle) programme includes two blocs; courses and thesis work. The programme comprises four years (two years for the licentiate degree). In case the doctoral student has a doctoral studentship and carries out departmental duties to a certain extent (no more than 20% of the whole programme), a corresponding prolonged period may be approved.

5.2 Individual study plan and supervision

An individual study plan outlining the implementation of the studies is drawn up for each doctoral student. The plan is established in consultation with the supervisor and is decided by the Head of Department by delegation of the Vice-Chancellor. The plan is reviewed and revised at least once a year.

The Head of Department shall appoint at least two supervisors, one of whom is appointed principal supervisor, for each doctoral student. The person appointed principal supervisor shall have at least qualifications required for appointment as a docent and be employed by the University. A principal supervisor who no longer meets the job requirements may continue as supervisor until the doctoral student completes his or her studies, by an individual agreement with the relevant department. The doctoral student is entitled to supervision during the studies, unless the Vice-Chancellor has decided otherwise in accordance with the Higher Education Ordinance (2010:1064) Chapter 6 Section 30. A doctoral student who so requests may have another supervisor (Higher Education Ordinance (2010:1064) Chapter 6 Section 28). The request does not need a justification.

5.3 Courses

The individual study plan shall specify the courses to be included in the doctoral student's education. The goal attainment is examined according to the examination procedure specified in the course syllabus. Credits may be transferred in accordance with the local guidelines in the Admissions procedure for doctoral (third-cycle) studies.

The following elements are mandatory for a Doctorate degree in Law:

- a) Third-cycle course(s) in legal method (at least 7.5 credits).
- b) At least 15 credits in the subject area. These courses shall entail both in-depth studies in the dissertation area and a broadened knowledge in the main subject.
- c) Knowledge of equality and gender issues in connection with legal rules and their application may be included in the above courses or be credited through other courses/in other ways.

The following elements are mandatory for a Licentiate degree in Law:

- a) At least 15 credits in the subject area. These courses shall entail both in-depth studies in the dissertation area and a broadened knowledge in the main subject (for example legal method).
- b) Knowledge of equality and gender issues in connection with legal rules and their application may be included in the above courses or be credited through other courses/in other ways.

Courses in the following categories may be included in a Licentiate and Doctorate degree in Law:

- a) Third-cycle courses that are of immediate importance to the doctoral student's field of research.

- b) Other courses of immediate importance for the doctoral student's dissertation. Courses in other disciplines can be included here.
- c) Third-cycle courses, such as scientific publishing, scientific method, theory of science and pedagogics.

5.4 Thesis

The thesis may take the form of either a single coherent work (a monographic thesis) or a compilation comprising a number of scientific articles interrelated by an introductory summary chapter (a compilation thesis). Quality and scope requirements for the research activities do not differ between the two alternatives. The scientific articles or, as appropriate, the monograph must be of such quality that they meet reasonable requirements for publication in a peer-reviewed scientific forum.

The following applies for doctoral dissertations in Law:

A monograph is written individually and should normally comprise 250–300 pages. A compilation thesis consists of a number of scientific articles concatenated by an introductory summary chapter. The summary chapter should normally comprise about 100 pages. The summary chapter can also entail an amplification of, for example, choice of method or a theoretical frame of reference. A compilation thesis must contain at least four scientific articles, where at least two are individually authored by the doctoral student. Two of the scientific articles must be published or accepted for publication.

For licentiate thesis the following applies:

A monograph is written individually and should normally comprise 100–150 pages. A compilation thesis consists of a number of scientific articles concatenated by an introductory summary chapter. The summary chapter should normally comprise about 50 pages. The summary chapter can also entail an amplification of, for example, choice of method or a theoretical frame of reference. A compilation thesis must contain at least two scientific articles, where at least one is individually written by the student. One of the scientific articles must be published or accepted for publication.

The introductory summary chapter shall include a separate section describing the doctoral student's contribution to the articles.

The doctoral thesis shall be defended at a public defence seminar. The grades for the thesis are either 'pass' or 'failed'. When grading the thesis, the content and the defence of thesis shall be taken into account. The grade of a doctoral thesis is decided by an examining committee, appointed anew for each thesis.

A doctoral student wanting to be awarded a Degree of Licentiate shall, after consultation with his or her supervisor, request approval from the responsible Head of Department. The doctoral student defends his or her licentiate thesis at a licentiate seminar after which the thesis is graded 'pass' or 'failed'. When grading the thesis, the content and the defence of the thesis is taken into account. An examiner, appointed by the Head of Department, grades the licentiate thesis.

6.Entry into effect and interim regulations

The previous general syllabus will cease to apply for third-cycle students who are admitted to studies at third-cycle level after 2020-05 20.

If agreed between the third-cycle student and the supervisors, the new general syllabus (LTU-1699-2020) may be used as a steering document for a previously admitted third-cycle student. It must be documented in the third-cycle student's individual study plan which general syllabus that applies.
